Eight little white girls, who attend the Jefferson School, building in South Washington, testified to his shocking conduct as he passes his store on School street, just in the rear of the school building. ## MONEY FOR THE MARSHALS.

There Will be Enough Next Month to Pay Them All Off.

The friends for U. S. Marshals, as readers of The Critic well know, are just now very low. But at the commencement of the next fiscal year, July 1, when the new legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill becomes operative, there will be money for the marshals.

The marshals who have been recently appointed have shown no eager desire to enter upon their offices. They would rather wait until the first of July when they can get some money. Therefore they have in a number of instances failed to take the oath of office. One of the most prominent of these appointees did not know what he was bringing upon himself. Not taking the oath of office at the time, he is now being sued by the Republican whom he will supersede sent to the Department of Justice a requisition for a small sum of money. Attorney-General Garfield, in reply to the requisition, yesterday telegraphed to the new man who had not assumed his duties: "I want your oath of office. In about four hours we received the following reply: 'I have just mailed my oath of office and will enter upon my duties immediately.'"

Commencement Exercises. It was a large crowd that attended the commencement exercises of Columbian University Preparatory School at Ford's Opera House last night. Angel Hall delivered the salutatory, and Dr. Howard Seely the valedictory. After the valedictory the certificates were awarded to the following: Delano Ames, F. Howard Seely, Harry H. Mason, William Weston, Allan T. Bacon, S. Howard Bacon, John Chester, George G. Getty, Arnold H. Ford, Irvin B. Monton, Judson D. Lincoln, Herbert H. Fetter, William H. Wilson, Frank W. Sackett and Allan E. Wilson.

The commencement exercises of the Washington Collegiate Institute were held at the Columbian University last night. There was an interesting musical and literary programme. The Lucy S. Cranford prize (a gold pin in the form of a star) was awarded to Miss Ada L. Townsend. Misses Pauline Leech, Amie Sionna, and May White were mentioned as being the next highest to the prize.

Rev. Dr. Addison, Solicitor-General Goode and Rev. Dr. Elliott made addresses before the young ladies of Norwood Institute at the closing exercises of the Mariell Hall last evening. After the addresses there was dancing. Prizes were awarded as follows: French and elocution—Marie Dancy. Regularity of attendance—Daisy Garland. Magic Watkins. Observation of school rules—Hattie Burdette. Lillian Cloughlin. Nellie Bell, Manie Jones, Mary Miller, Royce Macdonald. General Logan Serenaded. Several thousand people, mostly colored, crowded Iowa Circle and the avenues radiating from it last evening when General B. Caplin City Guards, and the National (colored) Band took their places in front of General Logan's residence. A company of colored soldiers, men entered the house and were received in the parlor. W. Calvin Chase and Charles Marshall making the presentations. A. St. A. Smith delivered an address expressing the joy of the colored people at General Logan's return to the Senate, their appreciation of his championship of their cause and their hope that he will call to a higher office four years hence. General Logan walked to the front door and was greeted with tumultuous applause. When it had subsided he thanked the people for their congratulations and expressing his appreciation of the spirit prompting the demonstration. As long as this Government guarantees rights to any class of citizens and fails to enforce them in all places and at all times it is that far a failure. His energy, his strength, and his influence, would always be devoted to the work of securing equal rights for all classes of American citizens. At the conclusion of his address he invited the crowd in to shake hands, and more than one thousand persons availed themselves of the invitation.

The fire, which is supposed to have originated from a cigar stump being thrown into a pile of shavings, was extinguished by citizens before the arrival of the fire department. Damage was slight.—Fire was discovered by Officer Nicholson in a frame shanty in Springman Alley, between Sixth and Seventh streets, southwest, yesterday afternoon, which was extinguished by the officer without the aid of the fire department.
